CHATTANOOGA, September 21.
The battle on the 19th resulted very early, having been our own as established on the left, and contracted the forces during the day. The morning we had a handsome line with the right on a ridge of hills, and the left was protected by rude works the boys had thrown up during the night.

CHATTANOOGA, September 21.
The river at this point commenced falling on Sunday, and since that time it has been receding rapidly. The water is now about 10 feet higher in the canal last evening by the mark. During the previous forty-eight hours the river at the head of the falls had receded fully six inches, which is equal to over one foot at Portland.
